'ping pong! Ok, that did it... I am here for help on installing the newest version of ubuntu. I'm on ubuntu 11.10. I have windows 7 as well. the ubuntu installer stops at where the.iso is. I'm stuck at where it is at when it is detecting my hard drive. using the openssh-server how can i get more information about the connection? specifically what channels the server is sending, and if it's over a vpn or not The laptop I'm trying to install it on is an HP pavilion. should i use the command line or something like wireshark? The version I'm trying to use is 64-bit. The version that is on the page is 32-bit. It is also a live disk. i'm new, i use lubuntu on my pc (now i have xp and lubuntu installed on my laptop) and i can't play my.avi,.mkv,.mp3,.ogg files, can someone help me? I'm still downloading it, but it has been a few days since the page has been updated. !dualboot ! Guest50154 Guest50154: Dual boot instructions: x86/AMD64: - Macs: 82157476af
